Goldthwaite's 1898 Cut Price List.

Lower Prices Than Ever.

This is the most complete Druggists' Price List ever published in New England, yet it contains only about ten articles to every hundred we have in stock. These were our ruling prices on going to press, but as we are daily cutting prices lower and lower, we may save you money even from these prices.

Write us freely about prices, as we have a mail order department. Always send enough money. If too much is received, we will return balance with goods.

Every preparation from our laboratory, as also those for which we are sole agents, is fully guaranteed by us. All proprietary preparations sold by us are always fresh, as we receive them direct from the manufacturers. These prices are subject to the fluctuations of the market. Our prices, however, are always the lowest.

NO COMBINATION can force us to advance prices—they have tried it. When we cut the price of an article it remains there or until we cut it again.

We are daily cutting prices lower and lower.

PRESCRIPTIONS.

People Think.

To aid their trade, many druggists furnish physicians with prescription blanks, with their firm name printed thereon as an advertisement. Many people, when they get prescriptions written on such blanks, think that it is necessary to take them to the drug store whose advertisement is on them.

Not So.

Now we just want to say that this is a mistake, and that all such prescriptions can be prepared by us. Frequently a customer will say: "I would like to have had the prescription prepared by you, as I know you would have saved me from 25 to 50 per cent., but it was written out for another drug store," thinking that it was necessary to take it there, when such an idea never entered the physician's head.

Point.

The point to be remembered is, that all prescriptions and medicines of any kind can be prepared by us.

MAIL ORDERS.

Lowest Prices.

Persons unable to visit our store and wishing goods in our line, may order of us and be sure of securing the lowest prices at all times.

Enough money should be sent with order, and any change will be returned with goods.

For amounts over fifty cents always, procure a postal or express money order. It reduces to a minimum the chances of loss.

Prompt Shipment.

We always make an effort to ship goods the day the order reaches us.

Write to us freely about prices and styles of anything you may want. We will do our best to answer fully.

Personal Attention.

We give personal attention to all orders, and every effort is made to secure satisfaction.

No combination can force us to advance prices.

Pneumonia.

A prominent business man said to us the other day: "That Cold and Grippe Cure is the greatest remedy I ever used. I had a severe cold, my head ached, cold chills run down my back. Sharp pains darted through my chest, every bone in my body ached, and I thought I was going to have an attack of pneumonia. One bottle of those little pellets completely broke it up. I keep a bottle in my pocket all the time now."

Every one tells the same story. During our fifteen years' experience in the drug business, we never sold a remedy that gave such satisfactory results as these little pellets, and we guarantee every bottle.

We save you the retailers' profit. Everything sold at wholesale prices.

LOWER PRICES. We are daily cutting prices lower and lower, and you can save time, trouble, and money by buying exclusively of us.

No combination can force us to advance prices.

Our Laboratory.

Our laboratory occupies one whole floor, and is equipped with modern apparatus and under the direct supervision of a skilled chemist.

One can see here test-tubes, beakers, percolators, retorts, stills,—everything the progressive chemist needs and uses.

It is here that drugs are examined—tested—and all our preparations made. It is by having a laboratory where nothing but our own work is done, that enables us to guarantee everything that bears our label, because we have absolute knowledge of its strength, purity, etc.

It costs money—lots of it—to maintain a laboratory, but we have the personal satisfaction of knowing that everything is right—just right—and that is worth a deal of money.

Smith's Vegetable Compound.

A Remedy that Cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Fever and Ague, and Purifies the Blood.

We have numerous testimonials as to the curing properties of this preparation,—not from distant towns but right here in Brockton,—all testifying to the fact that Smith's Vegetable Compound Does Cure Rheumatism in all its kinds. We stand back of it with a guarantee that if it does not cure, your money is ready for you.

Regular price, $1.00.

We sell it for 67 cents.

Pay no man higher prices than we ask.

Goldthwaite's Malt Extract.

Analysis has proved that our Malt contains more diastase and nutritious matter than any other Malt Extract. Its advantages over other liquid Malt Extracts are :

- 1—It contains more nutriment.
- 2—It has greater digestive power.
- 3—Its taste is more agreeable.
- 4—It can be borne by the weakest stomach.

It is, in fact, a liquid bread partly digested.

In hundreds of instances we have advised the use of this Malt in preference to all others, and have invariably been informed by physicians and patients that better results attend its use than can be obtained from any other Malt. If it is not exactly as represented, we will gladly return your money.

Price, 19 Cents each, $1.84 per dozen.

Goldthwaite's TASTELESS EMULSION of COD LIVER OIL

MADE FRESH
EACH WEEK.

Made Only
From
Pure Norwegian Oil.

With Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda.

NO SECRET.

There is no secret about an Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, for it is nothing but Cod Liver Oil mixed with some emulsifying agent, and so flavored as to disguise the taste of the oil. The purer the oil, the fresher the Emulsion, the better the results. We cannot impress too strongly on the physician and patient the use of only freshly prepared Emulsions. Our Emulsion is made fresh each week, and we believe that no emulsion should ever be used the age of which is unknown.

NO TASTE OF THE OIL.

The taste of the oil in our Emulsion is so completely disguised that people with sensitive stomachs and even children take it without the least trouble, and it can be taken by people who have been unable to take other Emulsions. So convinced are we of the superiority of our Emulsion that in every instance we will refund the money if, upon a trial, it should be found not only equal, but superior to any other Emulsion on the market.

Large Bottles, 50 Cents.

Our Second Present:

A Beautiful Cabinet Photo of Yourself

Or Any Member of Your Family Absolutely Free
During May, June, and July, 1898. ❀ ❀ ❀ ❀

It is an old adage that what is worth doing at all is worth doing well, and we believe that we have followed the oft repeated saying in selecting W. H. Caldwell, 143 Main St., Brockton, as our photographer. The annexed coupon entitles you to a finely finished cabinet photo absolutely free at the above studio on each Tuesday and Friday during the months of May, June, and July, the cost of the same being charged to us. It must be used only on these specified dates, as arrangements have been made to employ an increased force during these particular months.

We selected the studio of W. H. Caldwell because of its up-to-date methods and its reputation of doing the finest work known to the photographer's art, and also because it is one of the oldest and best known in the city.. It has always been a rule of this studio, which has now become almost as fixed as the inexorable law of Nature, never to allow anything but the very highest grade of work to leave their studio.

PHOTOGRAPH COUPON.

MR. W. H. CALDWELL, Photographer,
143 MAIN ST., BROCKTON:

Please make one sitting, and present the bearer with a fine cabinet photo, and charge the same to us.

This coupon is good on any Tuesday or Friday during the months of May, June, and July, 1898, but must not be detached from our Price-List before May 1.

C. H. GOLDTHWAITE, PROP. BROCKTON CUT PRICE DRUG STORE,

Probably there is no studio in the city where such high grade work can be obtained at such reasonable prices. For years he also has made a specialty of crayon portraits, and his work in this line ranks with the best in the country.

If you use the coupon, as we hope you will, for we always like to have our efforts appreciated, we feel confident that you will be so pleasantly treated and so delighted with the photograph that you will advise your friends to patronize Mr. Caldwell, as well as the one who has seen fit to donate the same.

C. H. GOLDTHWAITE.

GOLDTHWAITE'S SOLUTION CITRATE MAGNESIA. This excellent laxative is an agreeable substitute for Epsom Salts. It should, however, be used only when freshly prepared. We make it only in small quantities and never allow it to be sold after it is ten days old. Price, 20 cents.

Pay no man higher prices than we ask.

Elastic Stockings, $1.75 and Upwards.

Buy of the Makers and Save Two Profits.

We sell direct to the wearer,—that is why we are enabled to sell Surgical Elastic Goods for about one half the price ordinarily charged. Our Elastic Stockings are the most perfect ever made, and will wear one third longer than any other; this we know and stand ready to guarantee. While we keep the different sizes made up, yet we prefer to weave every stocking after the order is received, thus insuring freshness and a perfect fit.

The best rubber that money can buy is used in all our Elastic Goods, and while most makers use four ends of silk, we use six, making just that much better stocking.

You can have them made with straight or spiral seam, seamless heel, or non-elastic stays and loops to prevent tearing.

No matter what you may have paid for your stockings, we will guarantee our regular stocking, when made to order, to fit easier and wear longer, and that too at about half the ruling price.

Thigh Hose, Knee Caps, Abdominal Belts, and everything in Elastic Goods made to measure.

DIRECTIONS.

Give the Exact Size of the Limb; we allow for pressure.

Measure around the limb accurately with a tape measure, at the points corresponding with the dotted lines on cut, and place the number of inches round opposite the dotted lines. In hose to go above the knee, measure from bottom of foot to No. 5, and from No. 5 to as high as it is wanted to go.

For the Cure of Rheumatism
and Kidney
Troubles.

This Belt is Guaranteed.

Railroad men and people who are obliged to stand a great deal are more or less subject to Kidney Troubles. The symptoms are usually pain in the back, the urine is high colored, produces a stinging, smarting sensation when passed, and on standing, deposits a red sediment like brick dust.

The symptoms of Rheumatism are so well known that they need not be described. For the relief of these troubles, there is nothing equal to Dr. Duval's Electric Belts. They frequently give relief within twenty-four hours. They possess the two great elements of magnetism and galvanism to a greater degree than any other electrical appliance. They quicken the circulation, and impart vitality to the whole system. No railroad man or other person who has any trouble with the back or kidneys should be without one. We are sole agents for these Belts in New England, and will refund the money if relief is not given. Don't suffer or wait until you are obliged to leave work.

Preserving and Canning.

Generally speaking, "preserving" means the cooking of fruits in an equal weight of sugar, and long enough for the fruit to keep without being air tight; "canning" is done with little or no sugar, and with just enough cooking to thoroughly heat the fruit, but the air must be kept out. The preparation of the fruit for either process is similar, and the general directions may be applied to either.

To "preserve" or "can" easily, several useful articles are needed. The kettles should be plenty large enough, and should be broad and shallow, so as to expose as large a surface as possible to the heat. Bowls, platters, etc., most everyone has enough of. A small, sharp-pointed knife for paring should be provided. A good idea is to have a silver-plated fruit knife ground to a fine edge, and kept for the purpose.

Some other needful articles are silver or wooden spoons, large and small (iron spoons should never be used), wire spoons, scales for weighing, strainers of several sizes, and a plentiful supply of cheese cloth and flannel.

The jelly tumblers should be of the best glass and with perfect fitting covers. Be sure and have a good supply of rubbers.

Pint jars are the best size to use, and they should have large tops. A large mouth funnel is a great help in filling the jars.

General directions may be given as follows:

The utmost cleanliness should be observed in every part of the work, in the hands, the utensils, and the fruit. Avoid anything which will tend to change the color or flavor of the fruit, such as tin, iron, or brass utensils, or any longer exposure to the air than is necessary. Use only sound fruit and the purest sugar, spices, etc. Clean and scald the jars and covers before using. Have the rubbers new, and see that they fit perfectly. Stand the jars in a shallow dish of warm water, that they may be thoroughly warmed at the time of using. If the fruit is to be cooked in water first, have a pan of water on the stove.

Pare only enough fruit to fill one jar, and drop at once into the water. Keep on paring; cover the fruit with a damp cloth to keep out the air. As the pieces in the water have become soft, take them out and put on a large plate. Do not pile them up, or the lower ones will become crushed. When all the fruit is cooked, strain the water, and use for the syrup. Boil the syrup, and remove the scum. If the fruit is to be cooked in the syrup, observe the special directions in each case. When ready to fill the jars, see that the water in the pan and the jars are hot, then with a silver nut-pick, fork, or spoon, put each piece into the jars. Fruit like pears or peaches, cut in halves, must be arranged so the syrup will fill the hollow places.

Small fruit and berries should be taken up with a skimmer. Fill the jars nearly full, then pour in the syrup.

Run a silver spoon or knife handle around the inside of the jar, to let the air bubbles escape.

Fill to overflowing with syrup, and screw on the cover, being careful to see that the rubber bears evenly on the glass.

Remove from the water, and invert on the table.

As the jar cools, the cover may be screwed a little more tightly. Examine the next day. If there is no leakage, wrap in paper, and put in a cool, dark place. Look at them in a week, and if the covers are not tight, scald and use at once, or boil down for marmalade. A little foam or mould on top is not always a bad sign, especially if the cover is on tight.

CANNED.

CANNED BLACKBERRIES.

One cup of sugar and one-half cup of water should be allowed to each quart of berries. Boil and skim the syrup, then add as many berries as will cover the surface. Cook for ten minutes; then skim them out, and add others till they are all cooked. Put all back into the kettle, boil them up once, then pour immediately into the jars, and seal.

All our drugs are examined—tested—in our own laboratory.

GOLDTHWAITE'S VEGETABLE PILLS. Are the surest and easiest pill made. You will like them. They are purely vegetable and do not gripe. They stimulate the liver and secretive organs to healthy condition. We guarantee them to be the best pill on the market. Price, 15 cents.

We save you the retailers' profit. Everything sold at wholesale prices.

CANNED BLUEBERRIES.

Pick over and wash the berries, stew them in their own juice, with just enough water at first to prevent the lower ones from sticking. When all are well cooked, pour into jars, and seal. They will keep without sugar, but if they are wanted sweet, add half a cup of sugar to a quart of berries. Swamp berries require a cupful of sugar to a quart.

CANNED CHERRIES.

Use none but perfect cherries. Allow one cup of sugar to each jar of fruit. Arrange first a layer of cherries, then sugar, until the jar is nearly full. Put the jars in a boiler, with sticks under them. Now add water to the jars to nearly fill, cover them, but do not put on the rubbers. Let the water boil until the sugar has dissolved and formed a clear syrup. In the meantime, have more syrup boiling, and when the fruit is ready, take out of the boiler, fill with the hot syrup, and seal at once.

CANNED PEACHES.

Pare the peaches, and either leave them entire or cut in halves. Boil together one cup of sugar and one pint of water. Skim.

Put in as many peaches as will cover the bottom of the kettle, and let them boil up once. Then take them out with a wire spoon or silver fork, and pack them neatly in the jars. Fill with boiling syrup, and seal.

Should the peaches be hard, drop them as they are pared into boiling water, and cook carefully until tender, then take out onto large plates; be careful to keep them separate. Then when all are cooked, put them into the syrup a few minutes before putting into the jars.

CANNED PINEAPPLE.

Pare the fruit, and carefully remove the eye with a sharp-pointed silver knife. Chop or grate the pineapple, or shred it with a silver fork, rejecting the hard core. Allow half a pound of sugar to a pound of the fruit. Put all together, bring quickly to a boil, skim, and put into jars at once.

CANNED PLUMS.

Allow from eight to fourteen ounces sugar to each pound of fruit, according to their sourness. Wash them, and if large, prick each one in several places, so that the skins will not burst. If the plums are not very soft, and the skins are tough, put a few at a time in a wire basket, and plunge them first in boiling, then in cold, water. The skins may be then easily peeled off. Make the syrup according to the sourness of the plums, using as little water as is possible. Boil and skim it, and drop the fruit in carefully. Cool until tender, then drain, and put in the jars. Seal at once.

CANNED RASPBERRIES.

Allow one-quarter of a pound of sugar to each pound of fruit. Use none but large, sound berries, and do not mash them by handling. Make a syrup, using only enough water to dissolve the sugar. Boil the syrup, skim, and put in the berries, and boil for three minutes. Then put into jars, and seal.

CANNED RHUBARB.

Allow half a pound of sugar to each pound of rhubarb, peeled and cut in inch lengths. Make a syrup in the proportion of one-half a pint of water to two pounds of sugar; let it boil, and skim. Put the rhubarb into the syrup, and boil five minutes; then put into jars, and seal.

CANNED TOMATOES.

Wipe the tomatoes, which should be perfectly sound, as a single spot of decay may spoil the whole mess. Fill a wire basket with them, and plunge it into fast boiling water, until the skins begin to crack; then put in cold water for a moment. Remove the skin and the hard part under the stem. Mash thoroughly and let them boil quickly until soft, but not enough to evaporate all the liquid. To every quart add one teaspoonful of salt, a saltspoonful of pepper, and half a cup of sugar.

Cook for five minutes longer, then fill the jars nearly full. Fill to the brim with melted butter, strained and boiling hot, and seal at once. Olive oil may be used in place of the butter, if preferred. Wrap in paper, and put in a dark place.

Examine in a week or so, and if any of them show signs of fermentation, use for catsup. See directions under that head.

We are never too busy to impart information.

SHAKER GREASE AND STAIN REMOVER. Removes Grease, Stains, Paint and Pitch from carpets, clothing, and every kind of fabric. Grease spots look bad. We guarantee this article to remove them. Price, 25 cents.

We guarantee everything in this catalogue to be exactly as represented.

TO CAN CURRANTS AND BERRIES WITHOUT COOKING.

Equal quantities of sugar and fruit. Mash them together a few at a time. Be very careful that they are all thoroughly mashed, because they will spoil if they are not. Fill the jars to overflowing, shaking each layer firmly. Screw the caps down as tightly as possible. They will keep indefinitely.

WHOLE TOMATOES.

Fill a large stone jar with perfectly sound, ripe, whole tomatoes. Sprinkle sugar and a few cloves between each layer. Cover with a mixture of equal parts water and vinegar.

Tie over the top a cover of flannel, letting it hang in the liquid at the center. Over this tie a piece of brown paper.

These will keep well all winter, and are not harmed even if the flannel does collect mould.

PRESERVES.

PRESERVED QUINCES.

Wipe the quinces, cut in quarters, and remove the skins and cores. Allow equal weights of sugar and fruit. Cover the fruit with cold water, and add a little of the sugar as soon as it begins to boil. Do not stir them, but push the pieces under the syrup, and remove the scum. Keep adding the sugar until it is all in the kettle. Boil slowly until the quince is tender. Drain the pieces well as you take them out, and pack in jars, then fill with boiling syrup, and seal. By boiling the syrup you have left, and straining into tumblers, a good jelly is the result.

PRESERVED RASPBERRIES.

Allow an equal weight of sugar and berries. Pick out the largest and soundest ones, and mash the remainder. Boil for ten minutes, then strain through cheese cloth. Boil this juice with the sugar, and skim, then put in the whole berries, let them boil up once, then skim them out. Put into jars, filling them nearly full.

Boil the syrup down until there is about enough to fill the jars, put the berries all back, boil up once more, then fill the jars, and seal.

Strawberries may be preserved the same way.

PRESERVED TOMATOES.

To each pound of fruit, use one lemon and one pound of light-brown sugar. Grate the thin yellow part of the lemon, then pare off the thick white, which is not to be used, and slice the lemon thinly, removing the seeds. Scald and peel the tomatoes. Put enough water with the sugar to dissolve it. When it is boiling, remove the scum, and add the tomatoes and lemon. Cook slowly for two hours.

PRESERVED APPLES.

Use one-half pound of sugar to each pound of apples. Pare, quarter, and core the fruit and boil the parings with just enough water to cover. Sprinkle the sugar over the apple and allow to stand until the sugar is melted. Strain the water from the skins and pour it boiling over the apples. Allow to stand until cold. Then heat the water and pour again over the apples; do this several times to harden them. Then put all over the fire, add the grated rind and juice of one lemon or orange, and cool slowly until the apple seems clear.

PRESERVED PLUMS.

Take equal weight of sugar and plums. Wash the fruit, and put in a large bowl. Make the syrup, using as little water as possible. Boil and skim it, and turn over the plums. The next day pour off the syrup and boil again. Repeat this another morning, and after the last time turn the fruit and syrup into a kettle and boil up quickly, then simmer about twenty minutes. Pour into jars, and seal.

PRESERVED PEACHES.

Pare the fruit, then take equal weights peaches and sugar, put them together in a covered dish, and let them remain over night. In the morning, put them on to boil. Simmer until tender and transparent. Then skim, put in jars, and seal.

PRESERVED PINEAPPLE.

Prepare the pineapple as for canning. To each pound of the fruit, allow three quarters of a pound of sugar. Put together in a preserving kettle, stir well, and allow to stand over night. In the morning, bring to a boil, skim, and cook slowly, half an hour. Pour into the jars, and seal.

JAMS AND MARMALADES.

These are made from the skins, the pulp, and in some cases the seeds of the fruit are used. The fruit should be thoroughly mashed or cut in short pieces before being cooked, and stewed until tender, and in some cases strained. Frequent stirring will prevent burning. If they are cooked some time before adding the sugar, less sugar will be necessary and the seeds will not harden. They are sufficiently cooked when they bubble thick, or when dropped on a cold plate, will keep in shape or stiffen.

BARBERRY JAM.

Allow equal weights of sugar and barberries. Free the berries from stems and put them in a preserving kettle with just enough water to cover them. Cook slowly, and when the juice is drawn out add the sugar and simmer forty minutes. Turn into tumblers or jars and cover with paper. Should the seeds be objectionable, strain the juice before adding the sugar.

BLACKBERRY JAM.

Put the berries into a preserving kettle and express enough juice to keep from burning. Heat slowly and mash until all are broken. Cook twenty minutes, then add three-quarters of a pound of sugar to each pound of fruit in the first place and cook ten minutes longer. Put into small jars or tumblers and seal.

RASPBERRY JAM.

Allow equal weights of sugar and berries. Mash the raspberries and cook them in their own juice half an hour. Stir often. Then add one-fourth of the sugar, boil five minutes, and add another part of the sugar, and so on till the sugar is all added. Put in small jars or tumblers and cover with paper.

GRAPE MARMALADE.

Wash and pick over the grapes. Mash them and heat slowly until soft. Then turn into a hair sieve and rub gently until all but the seeds and skins have gone through. Put the residue into a little cold water and wash well. Then strain again and add this water to the pulp. Boil slowly half an hour. Measure the pulp and add an equal measure of sugar. Cook again for ten minutes, or until it boils up in thick bubbles. Turn into small jars and cover tightly.

PEACH MARMALADE.

Save the parings when canning peaches; also the soft or irregular pieces. Cover them with cold water and simmer until soft. Put through a sieve and boil again 20 minutes. Add half its weight in sugar and boil again.

FRESH DRUGS AND HERBS. These are bought direct from the botanical gardens and are always fresh. The importance of fresh drugs and herbs cannot be over estimated, as many of them deteriorate quickly. We make a specialty of preparing herbal recipes.

We are daily cutting prices lower and lower.

DR. CLARK'S PAINLESS CORN CURE. Lifts them right out and removes the soreness immediately. No trouble to apply it. Does not harden up. We guarantee it to remove hard or soft corns without pain. Price, 25 cents.

No combination can force us to advance prices.

JELLIES.

All kinds of fruits do not contain the principle (pectin) necessary to make jelly. Those that do not need the addition of one that does. Raspberries, Strawberries, and Cherries need the addition of Currants.

Barberries, Peaches, and Pears need Apples, Plums, or Quinces.

General directions may be given as follows: Strain without pressure the fruit juice through a piece of fine cloth or a hair sieve. Should pressure be necessary, strain the second time. Do not boil the sugar any longer with the fruit than is necessary, as it will lessen the flavor. Make a small quantity (a quart) at a time and avoid damp weather. Allow the tumblers to stand in hot water and fill to the brim. Set away in a dry place or in the sun for a few days. Then cover with soft paper, cut to fit inside the glass, and put on the tin covers.

CRAB APPLE JELLY.

Wash the apples, remove the blossom end, but do not pare or core them. Cover with cold water and cook slowly until soft. Do not stir or mash the apples. When the apples are very soft and the liquid is red, turn into a straining cloth and hang up to drip. After the liquid has dripped out through, boil it ten minutes and strain again through a fine cloth and measure it. Allow half a pound of sugar to each pint of juice. Boil the juice alone until it begins to thicken on the edge of the pan, then add the sugar and cook it five minutes longer, or until it jellies; then skim and turn into glasses.

CRANBERRY JELLY.

Pick over and wash the berries. Add about a cupful of water to a quart of berries and cook until perfectly soft. Mash the berries against the side of the kettle. Strain and allow an equal measure of sugar. Boil the juice 15 minutes, then add the sugar, remove the scum, and when it thickens on a spoon, turn into glasses.

GRAPE JELLY.

Wild Grapes gathered just before they turn make the best jelly. Free the grapes from the stem and wash them. Put into a kettle and mash them thoroughly. Heat slowly and cook until the juice is all drawn out. Then place a piece of cheese cloth over a collander and put a bowl under the collander. Turn in the grapes and let them drip without pressure. Measure the juice and allow an equal measure of sugar if cultivated grapes are used. Wild grapes require a little more. Boil the juice 15 minutes. Skim and strain again. Add the sugar, then boil until the liquid jellies on the edge. Skim well and turn into glasses.

PLUM JELLY.

Put the plums into a kettle with water to cover. Heat slowly and simmer until the plums will mash readily. Put into flannel cloth and allow the juice to drip through. When the pulp has dripped dry boil the juice, skimming often. Measure the juice and when it boils add an equal measure of sugar. Boil until it jellies. Pour into tumblers and let it set two or three days. Cover with paper and put in a cool, dry place.

PICKLES.

Use only the best cider vinegar. If it is too sharp, dilute with one-third water or it will eat the pickles up. Alum helps make them brittle and a little horseradish will prevent the vinegar moulding. Better use too much than too little salt. All kinds of pickle will keep better if sealed.

PICKLED RED CABBAGE.

After taking off the bad leaves of a firm, good-sized cabbage, quarter it and cut in very thin slices. Sprinkle well with salt and set aside 48 hours. Then drain off the salt liquid formed and pour over the cabbage a well-seasoned pickle of boiling hot vinegar. Cover the jars until the cabbage is cold, then fasten tightly.

Cauliflower or celery may be pickled in the same way. The cauliflower may be cooked tender, if preferred, first.

CUCUMBER PICKLES.

Cover one hundred small cucumbers with water, add half a pint of salt. Drain off the water in the morning. Take as much vinegar as there was water, one-half ounce whole cloves and all-spice, a piece of alum one-half as large as a walnut. Heat all together and pour boiling hot over the cucumbers. Cover the pickles up with cabbage leaves. A few green peppers added is a great improvement.

Pay no man higher prices than we ask.

PICKLED ONIONS.

Pour boiling brine over small, white onions two days in succession; then drain, place in jars and cover with cold vinegar.

MUSTARD PICKLES.

Take one quart each of small whole cucumbers, large cucumbers sliced, green tomatoes sliced, and small onions, one large cauliflower picked to pieces, and four green peppers cut fine. Mix one pint of salt and four quarts of water and pour over the vegetables. Heat just enough to scald and drain. Mix one cup of flour, six tablespoonfuls of ground mustard, and one tablespoonful of tumeric with enough vinegar to make a smooth paste; then add one cup of sugar and enough vinegar to make two quarts in all. Boil this mixture until it thickens and is smooth, stirring all the time; then add the vegetables and cook until heated through.

SWEET PICKLED PEARS.

Take ten pounds Bartlett pears not quite ripe. Wipe them and remove the blossom end. Cook in water until tender. Strain and to one quart of the water add one quart vinegar, five pounds of sugar, half a cup of stick cinnamon, whole cloves, mace, and allspice. Boil for half an hour, then add the pears. When well scalded remove them and pack in jars. Boil the syrup down until there is about enough to fill the jars. Pour it over the fruit and seal at once.

SWEET PICKLED PEACHES OR PLUMS.

Plums should be pricked to prevent bursting. Peaches should be wiped to remove the fur. Boil one quart vinegar, four pounds sugar, two ounces each whole cloves and stick cinnamon, one-half an ounce of ginger root, together ten minutes; add the fruit and let them stand a minute or two. Don't let them boil or become soft. Pour into a stone jar and in a week drain off the brine and scald again.

TOMATO CATSUP.

Stew together until very soft, one peck of ripe tomatoes, four large onions sliced, three-fourths of a cup of salt, three tablespoonfuls of black pepper, one tablespoonful of red pepper, one tablespoonful of allspice, one-half tablespoonful of cloves. This takes about two hours. Add just before straining, one quart vinegar; then strain and bottle at once.
